

U.S. AIR FORCE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL'S CORPS Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) Programs

	Description	Application	Requirements	Deadlines
Educational Delay (Ed-Delay)	Three-year program for officers commissioned through AFROTC who want to delay their entry on extended active duty in order to study law. Applicants must meet two separate boards for entry into the JAG Corps.	Ed-Delay In (senior year) 1. Apply to AFIT 2. Apply to JAG Corps Ed-Delay Out (3L year of law school) 1. Apply to JAG Corps	- Take the LSAT - Applied to one or more daytime J.D. program(s) at an ABA-approved law school (includes previously taking the LSAT to apply to law school). - AFROTC will commission the cadets as 2nd Lts and place them in the IRR while they go to law school.	The application deadlines for Ed-Delay/GLP/OYCP are the same every year: 10 January: Online application must be submitted 1 February: Staff Judge Advocate interview must be completed
Graduate Law Program (GLP)	Two-year program for first year law students to participate in the AFROTC while in law school.	GLP (first year of law school) 1. Interview with an AFROTC Det CC* 2. Apply to JAG Corps	- Complete AFROTC (AS100, AS200, AS300, and AS400) - Complete field training course
One Year College Program (OYCP)	One-year program for second year law students to participate in the AFROTC while in law school.	OYCP (second year of law school) 1. Interview with an AFROTC Det CC* 2. Apply to JAG Corps	- AFROTC will commission cadets as 2nd Lts and place them in the IRR until they pass the bar exam.

*AFROTC Det Commanders interview GLP/OYCP applicants before they apply to the JAG Corps. Det Commanders assess whether the applicant meets the qualifications to join AFROTC and provide a MFR to upload into their application for the JAG Corps.

The JAG Corps does not award any scholarships for participation in these programs. Participants are responsible for the cost of their legal education and do not receive military pay or benefits while attending law school.